SOME WORK FOR CONGRESS TO DO.

There are nine chances in ten that the coming session of congress will be largely wasted in discussing partisan schemes, and also in making another assault upon the tariff. But one of the most prominent questions that will come up for consideration will be the silver question, and no doubt this will be the hardest to settle. The librarian of congress, Mr. Spofford, recently said that he had a greater demand for books and pamphlets treating on the question of silver and its coinage than upon any other question. To show how difficult it will be to settle this matter, it is only necessary to state that only 125 members voted at the close of the last session of congress for Mr. Randall's motion to stop the further coinage of the silver dollar, although the motion was made at the public instigation of Mr. Cleveland prior to the adjournment of congress. There were 159 members who voted against the motion, and 102 of them have been re-elected to the house; while of the 125 who voted for the motion only 58 are members of the coming session. It can be seen at once that the prospects of stopping the coinage of the silver dollar are not flattering.

If Mr. Randall should keep his protection democrats as well in hand as he did at the last congress, it will be difficult for the house to pass any bill which will make any radical change in the tariff laws; and the only bill which would have a ghost of a chance of running the gauntlet of the senate would be one removing some of the ambiguities of the present law, and thereby prevent the secretary of the treasury from ruling in such a way as to do great harm to American industries. To remove these ambiguities would be a good thing and Mr. Randall will do the country a valuable service by giving aid to the republicans in the effort to abolish all such legal ambiguities in the present law.

There is another question of vital importance which will doubtless come up for discussion, and it is that connected with the post master general's refusal to carry out the law to maintain and encourage the establishment of American postal and commercial steamship lines: "The talk about the American flag disappearing from the high seas has more force now than ever. The recent report of the commissioner of navigation shows that there has been a decrease within the past year of 1,117 in the entire number of vessels, large and small in the American service. At that rate there will soon be nothing left upon the water to call an American merchant marine. It is estimated that this country pays more than $150,000,000 annually to the foreign ship owners who carry its ocean freights and passengers. Some means of keeping at least a part of this money at home and of giving the merchants of this country access to the new foreign markets congress ought to consider."

Dakota will again knock at the door for admission into the Union, and every fair minded man will say that it ought to be admitted. South Dakota has adopted a constitution and made all the necessary preparations for admission; but what will the democratic house do? As Dakota is a republican territory and is rapidly growing, the democratic house will likely feel inclined to let that territory knock in vain; but there is a strong public sentiment in favor of the admission, and possibly congress may wake up to the justice of Dakota's demands and admit it.

It is to be presumed that the demand for river and harbor appropriations will be as large and urgent as ever. For many years the democrats have been crying for reform upon this matter, and now that they have control of such expenditions, let us see how sincere will be the cry for reform; but experience warrants the statement that the democrats are more than ever in favor of large appropriations. They are very like Colonel Seller's, who, in his enthusiasm for the flag, never forgot to cherish a desire for a big appropriation.

Then, the presidential succession bill should be passed by all means. This is too grave a question to go longer unsettled. The slender thread on which all human lives hang, should teach congress that one of its chief duties is to hasten the enactment of a law which will wisely settle the all-important question which has been brought to the attention of the people by the sudden and unexpected death of Vice President Hendricks. Congress will largely redeem itself this winter if it shall carefully consider some of these vital questions and do less squabbling for part. patronage.

A Washington special to last evening's Chicago Journal says: Every day strengthens the impression that General Logan will be made president of the senate. The only matter in dispute is how he shall be elected. The opinion seems to favor the plan proposed by Senator Conger, viz: Elect a senator president pro tem in order to swear in General Logan, and on the following day elect the latter to the chair. It is conceded that the senate can change the president pro tem as often as it chooses. Another would be to adopt the Ferry precedent, and offer a resolution declaring that the oath of office be administered to General Logan, and then declare him elected president pro tem. There is another precedent analogous to the Ferry case, to be found in the thirty-fifth congress. At the special session which assembled on March 4, 1857, the senate passed a resolution directing the oath of office to be administered to Mr. Mason, and that he be declared president pro tem. Mr. Mason had been chosen president pro tem. at the preceding session, but his senatorial term having expired with that session, and he having been re-elected to the senate, his appointment as president pro tem. was thereby rendered necessary.

The morning democratic organ, in its last issue, contains an attempt at sarcasm on General John A. Logan which is in keeping with the policy of that reorganized organ. If General Logan knew just the estimate placed upon his character as a statesman by our talented contemporary he would doubtless vacate the senate. Unless some thoughtful mind will kindly advise him of the fact he is liable to go right on blundering his way up toward the front. Any journal which stoops in an effort to belittle the character of a man who has won his way into the hearts of the American people as has John A. Logan, will suffer as consequence the reaction which necessarily follows. The verdict of popular opinion has long since crowned the veteran soldier and in that verdict is recognized an endorsement of statesmanship of enviable magnitude. The field of journalism is broad enough to command the best effort of the best talent of both political parties. The field of muck is still broader.

The Gazette is under obligation to Clinton Babbitt, Esq., secretary of the State Agricultural society, for a copy of the transactions of the society for the current year. The work also contains full and exhaustive reports of the Horticultural Society, Dairymen's Association, and Department of Agriculture of the state university. A careful inspection of the book, which contains more than one thousand pages, suggests the thought that the great state of Wisconsin is rapidly developing along the lines of agricultural pursuits, and in keeping with the intelligence for which her people are noted. Our horticultural interests are also receiving careful attention, while the dairy interests of the state have already assumed mammoth proportions. The work is carefully compiled, and reflects much credit upon Secretary Babbitt.

The report of the secretary of the Utica, New York, board of trade, submitted at the annual meeting shows the past season to have been one of the worst for the cheese makers ever known in this country since the introduction of the factory system. The total number of boxes sold the Utica market was 32,795, or 19,247,760 pounds, at an average of 7.955-1,000 cents per pound, the lowest on record. The value of the cheese sold was $1,531,159.30. The sales were 5,765 boxes in excess of last year, and the receipts $457,379 less. The season's sales at Little Falls were 208,067 boxes, against 226,190 last year, and the receipts $990,606.98 this year, against $1,407,301.51 last year.

The Long Branch Disaster.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 3.—Two freight trains on the Wheeling division of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad collided about 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon near Washington, Pa. Two of the trainmen were instantly killed and three badly injured. William Reynolds, one of the injured, was brought to the West Pennsylvania hospital in this city, where his feet will be amputated. Both engines and a number of cars were completely wrecked.

Illinois Soldiers' Home Located.

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., Dec. 3.—The soldiers home commission selected Quincy for the location of the home on the fifth ballot Wednesday. Messrs. Berry, Wallace, Crawford, and White voted for Quincy, Mr. Hall for Springfield, Mr. Bryant for Decatur, and Mr. Noble for Dixon. Those opposing the selection of Quincy say that the result is a victory for the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy road, and they are very indignant.

Claims Professional Privilege.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Dec. 3.—Dr. Milne, who refused to testify in a criminal assault case as to the condition of a woman whom he attended professionally, is still in custody of the sheriff. It is believed that he will appeal to a higher court. He insists that information obtained professionally cannot properly be demanded of him as evidence in court.

Recent Railway Appointments.

When Maggie Mitchell Was Surprised.

[Brooklyn Eagle.]

One night while Maggie Mitchell was impersonating Fanchon to a crowded house in a Chicago theatre she went through the "shadow dance" with such vim that, as she was giving a final kick, one of her shoes flew up in the flies. For a moment she hardly knew what to do or say. Then, recovering herself, she continued that delightful conversation which Fanchon carries on with her shadow. She asked, with an assumed air of surprise, "Did you see that shoe fly?" She was astonished by the roar of delight with which this remark was received. She could not account for the shout of laughter that greeted it. When she had expected to receive a gentle murmur of public approval she heard one huge burst of applause, and noticed one great smile light up the faces of the whole audience.

She afterward had her anxiety on the subject gratified. It appears that Dan Bryant just about that time had made a great hit in his song of "Shoo Fly." When Maggie Mitchell repeated, although not meaning to do so, this then popular phrase, the audience caught at it at once and gave her the credit for it. She has gone on kicking off that shoe ever since, and no doubt some of our readers will remember that during her engagement here last year she kicked it clear into the balcony, amid the laughter of the audience.

CACERES CONQUERS.

IGLESIAS DEFEATED IN THE CAPITAL OF PERU.

A Provisional Government Named and a New Order of Things Inaugurated—Causes of the Trouble—The Mexican Revolution a Put-Up Job.

PANAMA, Dec. 3.—It is said here that Gen. Iglesias surrendered to Caceres at Lima at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, and that Senor Eusebo Sanchez has been named provisional president.

LIMA, Dec. 3.—Everything has been arranged. A commission has been named to take control of the government and to issue orders for the holding of elections. Amnesty for all has been declared.

WASHINGTON CITY, Dec. 3.—In connection with the announcement that Caceres has entered the city of Lima, and driven the government army into its barracks, a man who has lately been in Peru said Wednesday night:

"In the center of the city of Lima is a large plaza, the old palace that was built by Pizarro 380 years ago, occupying one side. At right angles with this stands the cathedral, which was also built by Pizarro, and the archbishop's palace, with which a large monastery is connected. The other two sides of the plaza consist of business houses, two stories in height. All of these buildings are made of adobe, and the walls are five and six feet in thickness, so that a bullet can not penetrate them. The government occupies the roofs of them all with sharpshooters and Gatling guns, and has squads of men stationed in the towers of the cathedral. If Caceres had artillery, he could destroy these mud walls, but the more bullets he pours into them the greater the resistance they offer as defenses. The telegrams announced that he was camped in the plaza of Bolivar, another park about six blocks away, from which he proposed to attack the government building, in which the army of Iglesias was concentrated. Mr. Buck, the American minister, lives only one square from the plaza where the fighting took place, his house being opposite the rear of the cathedral. It is probable that a great many, if not all, of the houses and stores surrounding the plaza will be plundered if not destroyed, as the troops, which are under command of Caceres are nearly all mountain Indians, and, instead of pay for their services, have been given license to plunder every city they enter.

"The origin of the movement of which Caceres is the leader dates back to the close of the war with Chili. When the Chilian army captured Lima at that time, it set up a government for Peru of its own choice, and then made terms of peace with that dummy government. Caceres, who was one of the prominent generals in the Peruvian army, in the meantime fled to the mountains, and has since been carrying on a war against the government which Chili set up, claiming that it was unconstitutional and had no right to surrender the southern provinces of Peru to Chili, which were demanded as the price of peace. Several attempts have been made to secure peace, but Caceres has refused to lay down his arms unless the Iglesias government should abdicate the power and permit a general election. This Iglesias has refused to do, and Caceres has continued his operations."

A Cut-and-Dried Revolution.

VILLA GARCIA, MEX., Dec. 3.—There is little change in the situation here. The revolutionary party under Manuel Rodriguez pulled up stakes here at noon, Wednesday, and marched toward Monterey, not being able to catch up with Gen. Sepulvedo.

The rumor that Gen. Miers would relieve Gen. Reyes as commander of the federal troops at Monterey is without confirmation. Gen. Reyes will be sustained by the president, and the federal government will appoint a military governor of the state of Nuevo Leon. This seems to have been the object in view from the first. The present administration is doing its utmost to establish a government, and it is thought that this will be accomplished when the last one of the Gonzales regime shall have been wiped out. The people are almost unanimous in the support of this measure.

The revolutionary party is still increasing its forces. On the other hand, some of the small towns along the southern states are organizing men to come to the governor's aid. Col. Lunza, secretary at Lampasos, is now at that place recruiting men for that service, while Novarjos, Gen. Televine, and Governor-elect Gerao Garza-Garcia of Nuevo Leon are in the City of Mexico conferring with the president in the same interest. It is not expected, however, that they will accomplish anything. The common people are but slightly interested in the present political disturbance. It is wholly the war of politicians, and the whole thing is looked upon as cut-and-dried.

NEWS FROM THE BALKANS.

The Feeling Still Feverish and Military Preparations Go on.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—Dispatches from Nissa report that a council of war was held there Wednesday. King Milan, Col. Horvatovitch, and the Austrian general, Albori, were present. It is reported that Gen. Albori insisted upon the Servians maintaining a defensive position until they are strongly reinforced in case the war shall be resumed. Austrian transports of all kinds are going to the front, and a feverish feeling exists. Active military preparations are progressing.

Advices from Belgrade say that the Servians are actively erecting fortifications between Pirot and Nissa.

Col. Horvatovitch has ordered all the retired officers who served under his command during the last Turkish war to go to the front. It is considered that the only chance that exists for preventing an extension of the conflict is the formation of a cabinet under M. Ristics, formerly prime minister, whose policy is to confine hostilities within their present limits.

Turkey is getting closer to the Bulgarian frontier with her troops, and it is expected that she will move into the Balkans for fear that Russia and Austria will absorb Bulgaria and Servia respectively.

Good Enough for Him.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—James Greenhugh, on trial in the criminal court here Wednesday, charged with criminally assaulting Jennie and Milly Lawrence, aged 9 and 7 years, respectively, received a sentence of twenty-five years in the penitentiary. Both the children were injured so that they required medical treatment for several weeks after.

Brewing Company Embarrassed.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—The George Winter Brewing company of this city has become financially embarrassed, and suits for $80,000 have been commenced against it by creditors. A compromise of 40 cents on the dollar will probably be effected. The unsecured liabilities are $160,000 and mortgage $53,000.

FARMS FOR THE INDIANS.

COMMISSIONER ATKINS OUTLINES AN INDIAN POLICY.

Lands in Severalty and Agricultural Training the Base Thereof—Monthly Showing of the Condition of the Treasury—Capital Gossip.

WASHINGTON CITY, Dec. 3.—The annual report of the commissioner of Indian affairs was made public Wednesday. Gen. Atkins devotes nearly one quarter of his report to an explanation of the general policy which he thinks should be adopted by the government in the management of the Indians. He proposes at the outset to make agriculturalists of them. It requires no seer, he says to foresee the civilization of the Indian race as a result naturally deducible from a knowledge and practice upon their part of the art of agriculture; for the history of agriculture among all people and in all countries intimately connects it with the highest intellectual and normal development of man, and the Indians constitute no exception to this political maxim. He sees hopeful signs of Indian progress and development in the increased interest manifested in agriculture on several reservation during the past few years.

In outlining the political policy, which he believes should be adopted by congress and the government in the management of the Indians, he advocates a dissolution of tribal relations and the allotment of lands in severalty to the Indians; and it should be industriously impressed upon them that they must abandon their tribal relations and take lands in severalty, as the corner-stone of their complete success in agriculture which means self-support, personal independence, and thrift. When they have taken their lands in severalty in sufficient quantities, the remaining lands of their reservations should be purchased by the government and opened to homestead entry at 50 to 75 cents per acre; and the money paid by the government for their lands held in trust, and invested for the education, civilization and material advancement of the red race—reserving for each tribe its own money. He thinks they can easily be made self-sustaining by agriculture, and then, when the farm and the school have become familiar institutions among them, they will be prepared to take the higher and more responsible duties and privileges which appertain to American citizenship. For the education of Indians next year, the commissioner asks for an increase of more than $100,000 above the appropriations for the current fiscal year. He urges the passage of laws prohibiting the sale of firearms to Indians off reservations, and to put a stop to aggressions on Indian lands.

NOMINAL INCREASE OF THE DEBT.

Monthly Statement of the Condition of the Treasury.

WASHINGTON CITY, Dec. 3.—The debt statement issued Wednesday shows an increase in the public debt during the month of November amounting to $4,857,198. The net cash balance reported in the treasury is $61,030,508, a decrease since Nov. 1 of $4,887,607, and the total debt now, less net cash, is $1,452,544,766. The gold coin, bullion and gold certificate balance in the treasury is now $146,391,486, or about $4,000,000 more than a month ago; and the silver bullion, standard dollar and silver certificate balance is $76,448,322, or about $2,000,000 more than on Nov. 1. The amount of fractional silver and minor coins in the treasury, and classed as unavailable for the reduction of the debt, is $28,536,480, or $4,850,000 more than a month ago.

There are $105,000,000 gold certificates outstanding, against $100,000,000 on Nov. 1, and $92,702,642 in silver certificates outstanding, against $93,148,772 a month ago. The store of standard silver dollars has increased about $2,000,000 during the month and now amount to $165,508,018.

Customs receipts for November amounted to $13,056,651, against $11,837,865 in November, 1884. Internal revenue receipts were $9,349,928, against $8,861,852 in November a year ago, and the miscellaneous receipts were $3,081,573, or nearly $1,700,000 more than in Novembe, 1884. Compared with the first five months of the preceding fiscal year, the total receipts from all sources show an increase of about $1,030,000 and amount to $141,071,248, while the expenditures during the five months of this year are but $115,013,021, or more than $7,000,000 less than for the corresponding months of 1884.

WASHINGTON NEWS NOTES.

The Cabinet Special.

WASHINGTON CITY, Dec. 3.—The Baltimore & Ohio special train which left Washington on Monday afternoon with Secretaries Bayard, Lamar and Whitney and Postmaster General Vilas on board, en route to Indianapolis, reached here on the return trip at half-past 3 o'clock Wednesday, and each member of the party expressed himself as having been rested and refreshed by the trip, instead of tired with railway travel. Secretary Bayard said that if the president had been able, consistently, to have carried out his original intention to accompany his cabinet, in the opinion of the secretary, there need not have been the slightest apprehension of danger.

Along the line of travel many ludicrous expressions were heard as the train passed slowly by stations. It was utterly impossible to convince the crowds which had gathered at many points that the executive was not on board. At Robesburg, a small village in West Virginia, just at the head of Cheat river, where a brief stop for water was made during the night, an old veteran approaching one of the train detectives, and assuring him that he had no intention of intruding, broke out in a husky voice: "Be gad, sir! I'll be satisfied if you'll only let me touch the car where the boss of the United States is slapin'." The usual assurance was given that the president had not left the capital, but it was not credited.

The impression that the president was with the party also prevailed among the masses in Indianapolis, and when the first, or pilot, section of the cabinet special left Union depot, the cars with curtains closely drawn were singled out by the immense throng as those occupied by the president and his friends. As a matter of fact the only occupants of the first train, besides employes, were Senators Voorhees and Vost and several members of the house funeral committee.

Upon arrival in Washington, Col. John M. Wilson, U. S. A., who was in charge of the cabinet party, went directly to the executive mansion and delivered to the president Mrs. Hendricks' kind acknowledgment of the president's autograph letter and of the message and flowers sent by Miss Cleveland.

Will Try to Stop the "Rider" Business.

WASHINGTON CITY, Dec. 3.—The Evening Star reports that some of the more conservative members of both parties have taken up the question of changing the rules of the house, and will favor a different plan from that proposed by Mr. Springer. Being opposed to the distribution of the appropriation bills among other committees, they will direct their attention to the prevention of riders being carried through the house on the appropriation bills. Their idea is to give the committee control of all appropriations, but to take from it the power to legislate or recommend legislation on appropriation bills. There are now 130 representatives in Washington.

An Office Shorn of Its Glory.

WASHINGTON CITY, Dec. 3.—The president has appointed Albert A. Wilson, of Washington City, to be United States marshal for the district of Columbia. Mr. Wilson is president of an insurance company, also president of a railway company, and a bank director in this city. The president, being convinced that the people of the District of Columbia are entitled to the entire time and attention of this officer in the performance of the legitimate duties pertaining to the marshalship, he has determined to relieve the office of the unofficial and social functions that have in late years attended it, and Mr. Wilson will not be called upon to perform the latter service.

Mr. McMichael, the former marshal, tendered his resignation on March 5 last, but continued in office at the president's request.

Official Appointments.

WASHINGTON CITY, Dec. 3.—The president late Wednesday afternoon made the following appointments: Alfred E. Egerter, to be surveyor of customs for the port of Wheeling, W. Va.; Horace B. Moore, to be collector of customs for the district of Duluth, Minn.

WHY RIEL WAS HUNG.

Answer of the Canadian Government to the Half-Breed's Friends.

MONTREAL, Dec. 3.—The Star publishes the defense of the Dominion government on the execution of Riel. The document, which covers five columns, is in the shape of a report to the privy council by the minister of justice, Sir Alex. Campbell, and reviews the whole subject in an exhaustive manner, showing that owing to the authority of the Roman Catholic church in the northwest Riel was not entitled to any sympathy. His motives were purely mercenary, he being willing at any moment to sell out the Metis for a few thousand dollars. The question of his sanity is satisfactorily settled. The report concludes as follows:

"Guilty of high treason for a second time, he had no more claim to the indulgence which it has been the habit to accord to political offenders. But that is not the most revolting part of his crime. No one denies that it was he who raised the Indian tribes of the northwest, and that he had been the direct cause of the frightful massacre of a number of persons, among whom two Catholic priests—missionaries—have perished, victims to savage barbarity. Ask all the priests, all the half-breeds of the northwest, who is the murderer of Fathers Tafard and Lamarchand, and they will all reply, 'Riel.' He alone had been able to persuade the Indian tribes to rise, and he is responsible firstly and chiefly for the murders which the rising has caused.

"Now, to raise the Indians is regarded by every government which has them under its control, as a crime which deserves death, for it is a crime against all humanity, Indian warfare being a war of extermination, without quarter, without mercy for defenseless people, for women and children. It is the greatest possible outrage in civilization, and a crime which falls outside of the class of political offenses."

BLEW THE BOAT TO ATOMS.

Latest Achievement of Natural Gas—Two Men Killed, Five Wounded.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Dec. 3.—The tow boat Iron City went aground at 2 o'clock Wednesday morning on the natural gas main of the Philadelphia company, which underlies the Allegheny river at Herr's island. In trying to back off the pipe was ruptured. The furnace fires of the boat ignited the escaping gas, and an explosion ensued, blowing the boat into atoms. The killed were: George Ashton, engineer; William Gilbraith. The following were wounded: Robert Jackson, fireman, badly bruised and scalded; Joe Richardson, badly injured; ex-Councilman Smith Walker, severely hurt; Billy Wently, leg broken; James Onslaer, the owner, severely injured.

The Iron City was valued at $16,000, and insured in the Louisville and Hull companies for $3,000.

Want to Know, You Know.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Some few of the stockholders of the Broadway & Seventh Avenue Railroad company are trying to find out what show they have at the profits of the Broadway surface road, which only cost $500,000 to build, and in which $1,000,000 of stock and $2,000,000 of bonds have been issued in addition to the $500,000 issued by the Broadway and Seventh avenue before the franchise was granted, and presumably to grease the aldermen. They don't know if they have the lease or or ownership of the road, and Jake Sharpe will not tell them. The stock rose from 200 to 325 and dropped back to 275, and they think that the ring is trying to freeze them out. A committee has been appointed to investigate.

Alleged Clue to the Murderer of Bowman.

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ills., Dec. 3.—The police are working on the story telegraphed from Joliet to the effect that ex-Mayor Bowman was killed by a discharged convict named Ed Moore, whom he had prosecuted and ruined. Harry Meyers, alias Muldoon, who tells the story, is well known here, having been arrested a number of times for heavy burglaries. Moore is well known also, and was implicated in the East St. Louis riots. Frank Bowman was seen, and said that he had received a communication from Meyers' sister, but paid no attention to it. The police think there is something in the story and are trying to trace up Moore.

Convention of Postmasters.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—The postmasters of the third and fourth class of this and adjoining counties, were in session Wednesday at McCoy's hotel, to select some suitable town where they can meet and take under consideration some of their grievances. These postmasters complain that they do not receive pay enough for their work, and as they have to pay the office rent and assistants, they are frequently left without any consideration. It was determined to hold a national convention in Chicago, Feb. 15, 1886, and a committee was chosen to make arrangements therefor.

The Elegant Samuel Jones.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 3.—Sam Jones, the revivalist, in his Sunday night talk, referred to Governor Mormaduke as an old swill tub, and said there were three old mash-tubs on the supreme bench of the state. He urged a political reform. There is considerable indignation because of this language and an indignation meeting is projected.

Religious Mob in Detroit.

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 3.—A mob composed of the members of Father Kalasinski's Polish Catholic congregation Wednesday surrounded the store of Thomas Zolthofski, a groceryman, who instigated the charge made against Father Kalasinski, which led to his deposition by the bishop and consequently to the recent riot in the church. No violence was offered by the mob, but in the afternoon it again assembled and surrounded the place, but contented itself with tearing off a shutter.

Another riot occurred Wednesday in the church. Women tore the robes from a priest, drowned the masses in screams, and threw mud and stones at the altar. The new priests were guarded by thirty policemen, who were unable to restrain the shower of brickbats. The deposed Father Kalasinski was surrounded by women and children, who kissed his hands and at his request left the scene.

The congregation met and decided to demand the restoration of their priest. Bishop Borgess has ordered that the church be closed.

Guarding It with Great Care.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—A Washington special to The Mail and Express says: The president's message is being guarded with extraordinary care, as it contains suggestions which if anticipated would seriously affect finance and trade.

WASN'T DEAD CERTAIN.

A FAITH-HEALER WHO WALKED WITH THE LORD,

But Could Not Give a Positive Answer to Important Questions—Remarkable Scenes at a Holiness Convention at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—At the Free Methodist church here a convention of Faith Healers is in session, and the attendance included men and women from many parts of the United States and also England. The excitement at the meeting Wednesday afternoon was intense, and half a hundred men and women were shouting wildly: "Glory to God!" "Hallelujah!" "Catch me up!" while long prayers and loud singing went on incessantly. The power of divine healing was the subject of Mr. Simpson's exhortation, the gentleman holding that the Lord was the only true physician to consult when one is suffering from bodily or spiritual disorders. Miss Carrie Judd, of Buffalo; Mrs. Baxter, of London, England, and Rev. Mr. Brown, of Chicago, spoke in the same strain, the morning session concluding with a song service.

There was a tremendous crush of curious lookers-on, and letters were read and personal experiences given going to prove the efficacy of faith as a cure for bodily ills. The scenes were remarkable during the meeting. An Iowa man wanted to know if the Lord could cure a cold. Mrs. Baxter thought that, inasmuch as the Savior had taken the trouble to count the hairs of our heads, it was quite reasonable to suppose that he knew everything about our bronchial tubes, and was as willing to heal a cough as he was to open the eyes of the blind. A Mr. Trumbull, of Chicago, a man with a weak voice, a bald head, and a long beard, declared that faith and prayer had cured him of physical prostration and a sprained ankle. Some one in the audience asked Mr. Trumbull to pray for a more robust voice. This unexpected shot seemed to stagger the speaker, and he took his seat with a crushed air.

Mr. Park Webb, of Chicago, said he was a child of the lord. For years he had suffered from organic diseases and had been given up to die. One night two years ago, the speaker attended a Bible reading meeting. He was healed by God while passing through a school house yard on his way home from the services. Just as he passed out of the yard he met the Lord, who said:

"Are you my child?"

"I guess I am," was Mr. Webb's laconic reply.

"Do you trust me?"

"Yes, Lord, I believe I do."

Then the two walked arm in arm until they reached Mr. Webb's house when, according to the speaker's story, he sang and howled on the doorstep until a snowstorm drove him in doors.

Mr. Simpson, who is the leader of the exercises, asked all those who desired to be anointed to withdraw to another room, where they would be prepared for the ceremony. Nearly 200 persons arose and retired from the hall. They were marshaled into a smaller room, looking out on Washington street, and grouped in three semi-circles about two wooden tables, upon which Mrs. Baxter and Mrs. Strand Smith kneeled in silent prayer. Nothing but the sobs and groans of the candidates disturbed the silence of the chamber. Persons from whose eyes the light of day had fled, paralytics resting uncomfortably in invalids' chairs, women whose pinched faces gave evidence of excruciating bodily pain, and several children whose little faces were almost hideous in their deadly pallor were there to hear words of comfort. Mrs. Baxter officiated at this preliminary ceremony. She urged all to forget everything earthly if they desired to be made whole. To be anointed was not a cure. That was merely a pledge to serve the Lord. To be healed one must fall upon the bosom of Jesus, and trust him to do the rest. Earnest prayer and implicit faith were the desiderata. A reformed drunkard, who was subject to epileptic fits, cried aloud for divine help. Tears ran down his cheeks, and his hands trembled violently. Mrs. Baxter then fell upon the table, and prayed for the unfortunate man with such fervor that many of the candidates fell prone upon the floor in paroxysms of frenzy, their eyes staring unnaturally and their hands clasped to their breasts. Prayers were offered for invalids in different portions of the country amid intense excitement.

At 4 o'clock the candidates were ushered into the church proper and given seats near the platform. After a prayer of almost insufferable length by Mr. Simpson those who were to be anointed kneeled at the chancel railing. The celebrities upon the stage came down and stood before the supplicants. Then Mr. Simpson thrust his right hand into one of his vest pockets and drew forth an ounce bottle, the contents of which he proceeded to rub on the foreheads of the candidates. The bottle contained oil of unknown properties, its chief merit being its determination to stick and shine wherever it was applied. After the anointing had been accomplished the celebrities from the stage laid their hands upon the heads of the candidates and prayed so long that one of the latter fell asleep at the railing and had to be shaken violently before he could be aroused. At the conclusion of the ceremony the organist and a shrill-voiced woman in the rear of the hall sang "Safe in Jesus" and the large audience dispersed through two doors of the church.

The Malignant Ingenuity of a Fiend

Could scarcely devise tortures more excruciating than those to which the victim of rheumatism, in the inflammatory stage, is subjected. It is also dangerous on account of the tendency toward the heart and stomach. Among the benign qualities of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, is that of expelling from the circulation those acrid impurities to which the disease is attributable. Analysis proves that, in cases of rheumatism, the kidneys fail to eliminate those impurities from the blood. The bitters, by stimulating these organs to activity, enables them to perform this all important function, and, therefore, averts the disease or remedies it at the outset. The functions of digestion, and secretion of bile by the liver, are also healthfully stimulated by the bitters, which conquers dyspepsia and liver complaint, and remedies fever and ague, bilious remittent, and other ailments of malarial birth. It is also the leading tonic of the age.

In all the world perhaps there's not
A cure like Dr. Richmond's NERVINE.

As in the blood diseases lie;
Each artery, each vein, each curve in;
There's nothing makes ill humor fly,
Like the SAMARITAN NERVINE.

GLOOM FOR THE TORIES.

English Liberals Show Up Strong in the Back Precincts—Election Riots.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—So far as Wednesday's vote in the counties has been heard from it shows Liberal gains. A surprising feature of the returns is that in the manufacturing districts the Liberals seem not only to have held their own, but to have made gains. This is considered remarkable, in view of the catching arguments drummed into the people of those districts by the Tories in favor of "fair trade." The success of the government's Burmese expedition also failed to have the effect which the Conservatives expected in the voting. Over all these things the Liberals have plucked up courage, and are feeling very jubilant.

The latest returns show the election of 237 Liberals, 193 Tories, and 44 Parnellites. In the old constituencies there is a gain of thirty-eight seats for the Tories, and six for the Liberals. In the newly formed constituencies 108 Liberals and 107 Tories have been elected. The net gain for the Tories is thirty-three seats. For the first time since the elections began it is now admitted that there is a likelihood of the Liberals electing enough members to equal the Tories and Parnellites combined. The fact can not be positively decided until next Saturday. In Rose and Cromarty, Scotland, Dr. MacDonald, a Crofter candidate, has defeated R. C. Munro Ferguson, Liberal.

The Standard takes a gloomy view of the political situation from the Tory standpoint. It mournfully admits that the new Radical gospel has not been preached in vain among the countrymen. It estimates that nothing less than two-thirds of the seats remaining to be voted for will give Lord Salisbury an adequate following in the new parliament, and it declares that the necessity for vigorous and united action is imperative.

Riot at the Polls in Ireland.

DUBLIN, Dec. 3.—A serious election riot occurred Wednesday at Carlingford, in County Louth, a few miles north of Dundalk. The trouble grew out of the bitter feeling which has existed for weeks between the supporters of Joseph Nolan, the regular Parnellite candidate and the friends of Philip Callan, who is running as an independent Nationalist. The Nolanites were armed with bludgeons and were headed by the priests of the local parishes. They took possession of all the approaches to the polls and prevented many of the Callanites from voting. There were several fights and many men on both sides were injured.

Broken Heads in Wales.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—An election riot occurred Wednesday at Rhondda valley in North Glamorganshire, Wales. Several persons were injured.

MURDERED BY THE REDSKINS.

The Barbarous Apaches at Their Favorite Pastime.

DEMING, N. M., Dec. 3.—Two brothers named Wright, pioneers of Arizona, who lived at San Jose, on the Gila river, were found murdered, Wednesday morning, near Solomonville, Arizona, by a stage-driver on his way to Fort Thomas. They had been killed by the raiding Apaches, and their bodies were horribly mangled. A dispatch from Wilcox says that Ben Crawford, sheriff of Graham county, has been killed by the Indians.

Wednesday morning the Indians killed a cattleman named Dick Mays and an unknown man at Coronado ranch. Later they attacked some section men who were at work on the railroad near Duncan, but the men escaped. The Indians are divided into bands of from fifteen to twenty. The killing of Sheriff Crawford has created the wildest excitement, and men, women, and children are fleeing in all directions. Couriers are being sent out to warn settlers. Militia from Clifton and a party of citizens from Duncan are in hot pursuit of the savages. Militia from Lordsburg, N. M., will start out Wednesday night. The Indians are headed for the Chiricahua mountains.

National Congress of Farmers.

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 3.—The Farmers' National congress of the United States met here Wednesday in annual session with sixty delegates. Kansas, Virginia, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, New Jersey, Missouri, Mississippi, Tennessee, and Minnesota were represented. The president's address called attention to the depression in prices in various products; to malicious legislation regarding sheep husbandry; and to the necessity for various legal reforms. It asks for three measures for the benefit of agricultural interests: The creation of a secretary of agriculture as a government department; the extension of the benefits of the signal service; and the suppression of pleuro-pneumonia among the cattle of the country.

Big Demand for Grant's Book.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—The offices of Charles L. Webster & Co. at 41 East Fourteenth street presented a busy scene all day Wednesday. The demand for the "Personal Memoirs of U. S. Grant" began at an early hour and continued all day. The total number of Gen. Grant's memoirs subscribed for in and around New York city slightly exceeds 20,000 copies. The total number of local canvassers handling the Grant memoirs is 140, and in the entire country 900. The distribution commenced Tuesday afternoon.

A Captain's Fortunate Discovery.

Capt. Coleman, schr. Weymouth, plying between Atlantic City and N. Y., had been troubled with a cough so that he was unable to sleep, and was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. It not only gave him instant relief, but allayed the extreme soreness in his breast. His children were similarly affected, and a single dose had the same happy effect. Dr. King's New Discovery is now the standard remedy in the Coleman household and on board the schooner. Free Trial Bottles of this Standard Remedy at F. Sherer & Co's Drug Store.

Prentice & Evenson guarantee positive relief for any cough, cold, croup or lung complaint by using Acker's English Remedy, or will refund the money.

Why continue the use of irritating powders, snuffs or liquids. Ely's Cream Balm, pleasant of application, and a sure cure for catarrh and cold in head, can be had for 50c. at druggists. It is easily applied with the finger, is safe and pleasant, and is curing the most obstinate cases. It gives relief at once.

Being a sufferer from chronic catarrh, and having derived great benefit from the use of Ely's Cream Balm, I can highly recommend it. Its sales are far in excess of all other catarrh remedies.—B. Franken, Druggist, Sigourney, Iowa.

An Ugly Ceiling.
[Good Housekeeping.]

Who has not at sometime lived in a house in which some common room had a very ugly ceiling! Perhaps some of us may be in just such a place now. The plaster was rough in the first place, or has been badly cracked, or the water has come through a bad roof and soaked it off in patches which refuse to be mended in a creditable manner. Altogether it is an uncompromising eyesore. What shall we do with it that it may not be so out of keeping with the room which we are trying to make warm and cozy for winter? It can not be made presentable by paint or kalsomining; what next?

Cover it up. Let it serve merely as a foundation for something pretty. A new suggestion from people who are supposed to be artistic, is to lay off such a ceiling into suitable panels, and cover these panels with plain basket-checked burlap, tacked on very smooth, and painted some light tint, like pale blue, pink, green, olive, brown or cream. The lines where the pieces join are then to be covered with inexpensive narrow mouldings, which must be neatly fitted at the corners. They may then be gilded, if desired. A cheaper method is to tack on small rope for this purpose, with smooth, slender brads, and then gild it carefully; but in the hands of any but professional decorators we fear it could not be neatly done at the corners and places where the pieces of rope would join.

There is no reason why the burlap could not be applied to the walls also, in similar panels, and painted a darker shade. Flat walnut mouldings would be suitable for walls. It may be remarked, in conclusion, that painted walls are among the best for living rooms. Dull red, olive and light chocolate are very pretty and suitable with either painted or paper borders.

A half teaspoonful of soda in half a cup of water will relieve sick headache caused by indigestion.

A hard cold is ofttimes cured by a cup of hot lemonade taken at bedtime, as it produces perspiration.

Teething children may be relieved of convulsions by being immersed in a warm bath, and cold water applied to the head.

The Scientific American recommends a gargle of salt and water for diphtheritic sore throat with a light diet. This in the first soreness. Also a sirup of onions, sugar and honey for obstinate coughs.

For croup or pneumonia bruise raw onions, lay on a cloth with powdered gum camphor sprinkled over it, and apply to chest and lungs, and cover with hot flannel. This is a sure cure if taken in time.

Our readers will find the finest assortment of gentlemens' and ladies' toilet sets at Prentice & Evenson's drug store, opposite the post office, and the prices are much lower than last season. They also offer an elegant line of pearl opera glasses, in all the latest styles. Very cheap.

MILWAUKEE'S MANY HAPPY HOMES.

Milwaukee, "points with pride" to her many homes, from the humble dwellings of the laborers to those beautiful houses of the more wealthy citizens which glorify the city by the lake. It is a fine showing and Milwaukee may well be proud of it, for in the home, wherever it may be, rather than in the crowded tenement or the more luxurious flat, are bred those strong and simple virtues which are the bulwark of the republic and the state. Among these happy homes is that of Mrs. C. W. Brown, at No. 143 Sixth street. Happiness reigns there because the daughter of the house has been snatched from the very jaws of death by what seemed little less than a miraculous cure. As the case has excited great interest among Mrs. Brown's friends and neighbors we give that lady's account of the whole matter just as she herself told it to a visitor. She said:

"We give the credit to Athlophoros for having our daughter alive and well. She had inflammatory rheumatism in such a serious form that we did not know but that she would die every minute. But I will tell you just how it all was, starting at the beginning. She was first taken with what seemed to be nothing but an ordinary stiff neck. I treated her with the usual remedies in such cases, thinking that the trouble would soon pass off; but alas, such was not the case. The disease seemed to spread very quickly over the whole body, giving her the most excruciating pains. These seemed almost beyond her endurance, even for a short time, and caused her to give vent to violent screams, every one of which seemed to pierce my heart.

As soon as the disease took this form I at once sent for a physician. Upon examination he pronounced the case a very bad form of inflammatory rheumatism. He made every endeavor to give my daughter relief, but could not. The disease was steadily growing worse and she began to feel it around her heart. As this was the vital part, and I feared that the child might die before we could give her relief, I said:

"'Doctor, I am not satisfied. This child must have relief at once or she will die. She cannot stand this torture much longer.'

"I thought there must surely be something to give her relief. I had read sometime before this of the cures made by the use of Athlophoros. On the impulse of the moment I said to my husband:

"'I am going to try this Athlophoros. It will do her no harm, even if it does no good.'

"I at once sent after a bottle and began giving her the medicine. To my utter surprise after giving her eight teaspoonfuls she had relief, and in two days she was up and around and did not suffer a pain. All she used was the one bottle."

"Do you not think it a wonderful cure?"

"Yes; Athlophoros is the victor. I wish I could tell all sufferers from rheumatism to use Athlophoros. I feel that it has done so much for me by saving my child's life."

Mr. T. E. Chatfield, the well known contractor, of 365 Eleventh avenue, Milwaukee, was prevented from attending to business on account of rheumatism, he says:

"After using about two-thirds of a bottle of Athlophoros my rheumatism went away as if by some magic power, and in a few days I was entirely well and went about my work."

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it of your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed. ATHLOPHOROS CO., 112 Wall Street, New York.

The following letter from a well known Western lady explains itself and is worthy of careful reading:

"I wish to say to the sick and those that are feeble and weak from any cause whatever, that in all the vocabulary of medicines they will find the most virtue and greatest benefit from Parker's Tonic. I have been an invalid for five or six years past, and given up to die by the most skillful physicians of Kansas and Colorado, but Parker's Tonic has kept me alive, and raised me up after everything else failed. I have organic heart disease, combined with spinal and great nervous debility, and have cold sinking spells with no pulse, and the only medicine that will bring on a reaction is Parker's Tonic. I have never known it to fail in curing a cold if taken in time, and it will relieve pain quicker than any remedy I have ever tried. I send you this because I would like for others to know how much good it has done me. It is just as good for children. Try it and be convinced".

Our Graham Flour

is made from thoroughly cleaned, Choice, White Winter Wheat. Graham Flour takes its name from Sylvester Graham, the author of a noted treatise on "Bread and Bread Making." It is conceded that bread made from unbolted or Graham Flour, is more healthful and nutritious than fine, white bolted flour, for the reason that it contains more of the gluten, from which the flesh, bone, brain and tissue of the body is built up and sustained.

The whitest and most beautiful bread found upon the tables of the critical American, contains less of the elements of

STRENGTH, HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Than the dark colored rye bread in Germany, or the heavy loaves found in the knap-sacks of the Russian soldier. Graham bread made from good, clean wheat is very excellent and healthful food. We propose to make and sell this kind of flour.

Corn Meal.

is a staple article of diet in the Eastern and Southern States, and should be more generally used here. Is there a Yankee on the face of the earth, who has wandered so far from the hills of New England, that he has forgotten the baked pork and beans, the rye and the Indian meal bread, or the baked Indian pudding with which his heart and stomach were gladdened during the days of his boyhood. Hoe cake, Johnny cake, mush and milk, corn meal gems, and Indian meal puddings, with pork and bacon, were main articles of diet for the sturdy men and women who subdued and built up the older States of the Union. We offer to the trade, and families, both the bolted and granulated Corn Meal.

—Last evening the Choral Union rehearsal was very well attended. Prof. Torrens has brought the society to a standard of excellence this year much higher than that reached last year by them, and a concert is now being arranged. No date was fixed, but it is expected that a short time after Christmas will be the chosen time.

—Mr. George F. Bland, of the fourth ward, held No. 54, which won the handsome red plush toilet case raffled at Stearns & Baker's drugstore last evening. Will Koeblin did the "raffling" all on the square. The case is a beauty, and Mr. Bland is proud of his good luck and the possession of such a handsome piece of "furniture."

—Last night Charles Knuck's new slaughter house at the foot of Jackson street, was broken open by unwelcome visitors. They broke the iron latch, and then unbarred the inner door, which led to the cattle pen. No animals had been left over night except one heifer, and this the thieves took, making away with the plunder without leaving the least track or anything to guide the officers.

—The statement in last evenings Gazette that Mr. N. L. Carle had bought the Monterey mill, was a little premature. Mr. Bonesteel informs us to day that the mill has not changed hands. The goods turned out by this well known mill under the efficient management of Mr. Bonesteel have established an enviable reputation, and no pains will be spared to keep pace with the times, and demands of patrons, for superior goods at reasonable rates.

—A fair sized audience assembled at the opera house last evening to witness the closing performance of the Lawrence Marston combination, the plays presented being "The Iron Will" and "The Stage Struck Chambermaid." The universal verdict of all who have witnessed the performances of this company, is that it is the best combination that has visited our city this season. We hope the company will visit our city again.

—The best remedy for bleeding at the nose as given by Doctor Gleason at one of his lectures, is in the vigorous motion of the jaws, as if in the act of chewing. In the case of a child, a wad of paper should be inserted and chewed hard. It is the motion of the jaw that stops the flow of blood. This remedy is so very simple that many will feel inclined to laugh at it, but it has never been known to fail in a single instance, even in the severest cases.—Scientific American.

—The freight conductors and brakemen on the Northwestern railroad are feeling pretty good at present, having had a raise in wages. Conductors get $60 a month for the first year they run, $70 for the second year and $75 for the third. Brakemen get $45 the first year and $50 the second, with extra pay for all mileage over 2,000 miles per month. This raise was due to a request of a delegate conductor from each division of the Northwestern lines, who laid the matter before C. C. Wheeler, general superintendent of the road.—Racine Journal.

—The pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs M. Johnson, of the second ward, was the scene of a pleasant social gathering, on Tuesday evening, which will long be remembered by all who participated. About forty of their friends planned and successfully executed a surprise upon them and their daughter, Mrs. A. H. Krogh, who is visiting them. The evening was very happily spent in social games and conversation, refreshments were served, and at a late hour the party separated, going to their several homes all voting the affair the pleasantest of the season.

—Last night at ten o'clock the spirit of death looked into the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Young in the town of Center, and took away the head of the family. Mr. Young was an old settler in this part of the county. He was about seventy years of age and had been sick only a short time. Besides a bereaved wife he leaves five children to mourn deaths ravages, and the sympathies of the entire neighborhood will go with them in this dark hour. The deceased was universally esteemed and no one will have other feelings than those of sincere grief at the loss of so highly respected a citizen. Funeral services will be held in St. Patrick's church at 10:30 to-morrow morning.

—Professor Sangamon, of Heildeburg, Germany, lectured to the school children this afternoon on vocal culture. His lecture, which was delivered in the high school room, was a very interesting one. It treated of the voice, its culture, and the proper methods to prepare for this culture, and proved quite an aid to the course of musical training now being given in our schools. The difference between the singing of civilized and uncivilized people was also spoken of and the lecturer showed by example how closely the human voice can imitate the various instruments. Professor Sangamon is traveling through the United States giving these lectures to help along the study of music and he has met with much success.

—Among the opinions of the state supreme court rendered on Tuesday, is one of general interest to the public, being a case against the Western Union Telegraph Company, affecting the validity of the printed contract appearing on the blank messages of the company. William Thompson sent a message from Boscobel to his brother at Fennimore, twelve miles away, at 10 a. m., April 26, 1884, instructing him to bring a horse to Boscobel which he had sold and which was to be shipped to Milwaukee the same day at 5 p. m. Delivery of the telegram was delayed two days, until 10 a. m., April 28, Thompson thereby losing the sale of the horse, which he afterwards sold for $25 less than the price he was to receive. He brought action against the company and recovered that amount in both justice and circuit courts. The offer of the company to refund the price of the message being refused, it appealed to the supreme court to enforce the contract on the blanks. It was held by the court that the contract was void as against public policy, and the decision of the lower courts affirmed.

—The advertising cards which have been spread about town bearing a skull and cross-bones in a red ground, have aroused considerable curiosity. They bear the words, "Notice is given you for the second time, to look out for the MYSTIC LEAGUE," and when a prominent west side Mason found one on his door step, the thought flashed through his head that some rival order was on the war path. He hurried down town with cold chills sliding around on his back, and walking into the family grocery store, inquired if they kept revolvers. They didn't, but the clerk told him that the hardware store across the street sold all kinds of deadly weapons, from a pick axe to a gun, large enough to dig post-holes with. No, that didn't suit the customer, and finally he told the cause of his sudden desire for gore, ending with the remark that, judging from their looks those hardware men belonged to the dreaded League. The clerk who had received two or three of the "warnings" himself and had seen seven or eight more scattered on the sidewalks, succeeded in explaining matters to him, but within an hour his name was on the books of a life insurance agency, so there must be a little anxiety left.

Court Notes.

The Wood county libel case is progressing bravely but will not be finished for quite a little while. To-day the defendant, George Hiles, has been on the stand and has been cross examined on the subject of the Dexter county tax rolls. The investigation had an especial reference to how the defendant's property was appraised as compared to that of adjoining land owners.

Judge Patten was only visited by two subjects to-day, one a drunk who was discharged and one a confirmed tramp who was given a short term on bread and water.

A Beloit trespass case entitled Moore against Lieb is being tried before a jury in Justice M. S. Prichard's court to-day. The trespas complained of was the breaking down of a fence by the defendant against the plaintiff's order.

Electric Motive Power.

[Paris Cor. Chicago Journal.]

M. Deprez, in 1882, exhibited the results of his experiments to transmit electricity as a motive power for industrial purposes. Rothschild has backed him up with the cash, the outlay to the present being 800,000 francs. In the 1882 experiments, Deprez produced a current of electricity and sent it along an ordinary telegraphic wire a distance of six miles, into a recipient which accumulated 40 per cent. of the volume of electricity generated and that represented a stored force of eight horse-power. Like water, gas or other fluids, conveyed through pipes, electricity, too, loses by leakage along its pipe, which is a wire.

Now the problem for solution is, not to produce, but to transmit the electric current over a great distance with so little leakage as to enable it to be practically utilized as a motive power. M. Duprez can now transmit an electric force a distance of thirty-six miles, representing in the receiver forty horse-power, and only a loss of 50 per cent. through leakage on the way.

Newspapers of Rio Janeiro.

[Cor. New York Sun.]

The newspapers are more enterprising and newsy than those of other South American countries, having pretty full cable reports, and there are plenty of them. Blackmailing sheets are numerous, as there is no law of libel in the country, and the editors carry on a scandalous but profitable business. The only recourse of a man who is slandered is to club or shoot the editor, and such punishment is frequent.

LOOKING FOR NESTS.

PREDATORY HANDS WHICH THE BIRDS SOON LEARN TO FEAR.

An Old Taxidermist's Story—Studying the Peculiarities of Bird Nature—Exchange of Eggs Among Collectors—Preserving the Eggs.

[New York Sun.]

"The best way to learn the habits of birds is in making a collection of their eggs," said an old taxidermist in a down-town street as he wound a ball of tow around a small but stiff wire, and then inserted the same into the skin of a meadow lark that lay before him on the table. The shop was filled with mounted birds in every position. Big cranes stood up in corners and peered with lifelike naturalness out at the cases in which flocks of smaller birds hovered in and about artificial trees. These little groups were tastefully arranged, and the birds well-chosen. A hawk and a kingbird, sworn enemies, did not rest together on the same bough, nor was a water bird holding a toto-a-tete with a land bird.

"Some will tell you," said the old man, "that shooting birds to make bird skins of them is a better way, but I believe in egg collecting, for then you do not kill the bird but simply watch its habits and learn a little of bird life. Then, in making a collection of bird skins you cannot mount them all and must pack them away in boxes, where they are no use to your friends. Now, take this meadow lark for an instance. How many times you have seen one of this bird's brothers—for it is a male, the brighter plumage shows that—as he walks rapidly through the lately-mown meadow, or perhaps resting on the top of one of the hay cocks, yet how few have ever discovered the nest tunneled under a tuft of grass in the old field. The little hollow is lined with soft grasses and a cozier little home can not be found, for the old bird is there to protect the eggs from the meadow mole that runs over the field and other enemies.

STUDYING BIRD NATURE.

"Now, mind you, I do not advocate wholesale robbery of nests, as the small boys do who, fired with zeal to make a collection not from a love of observing birds and studying bird nature, but because the egg are pretty and some other boy has a collection, rob every robin's nest within reach. They all ought to be whipped for every egg they steal. But for a true lover of natural history there is no more pleasing occupation. The danger of depopulation of the rarer birds is not great, for in the first place their nests are very hard to find, and the true bird lover will not take the eggs of the same species but once. Besides, most birds will immediately lay another set of eggs if robbed."

The old taxidermist had been a collector himself and knew its charm. Indeed, in his own window were several nests full of eggs, presided over by their dead owners as a mounted guard.

"Are there many collectors of birds' eggs?" asked the young man as he watched the old man dress down the feathers of the meadow lark he had brought in.

"Oh yes, there are a good many scattered throughout the country, and many have pretty collections, too. Quite a traffic is carried on in birds' eggs, though, I am sorry to say, it is mostly young fellows who do not care so much for the knowledge of bird life as for the eggs themselves. The eggs have a market value. Of course, the rarer the bird or the greater the difficulty of finding the nest, the more valuable the egg. This meadow lark's eggs are worth 50 cents apiece. It is a common bird and the experienced collector will find the nest without much difficulty, though the beginner will travel through a meadow for a week without coming across it. That owl's egg in my window is valued at $3.50. A great many kinds are worth from 40 cents to $1.50, and some of the rarer eggs are retailed as high as $30, or more. If I owned a great auk's egg, a species now extinct, though it is not so long ago the bird could be found in the northern region, a fabulous price it would bring.

EXCHANGE OF EGGS.

"Then, too, a good deal of exchanging is done, especially among the young fellows. The young naturalists in Santa Cruz, Cal., will be very glad to send on to you some of the birds' eggs to be found in that section for eggs that you can get in New York or New Jersey without much trouble, crows' eggs for example. A price list of a reputable dealer in birds' eggs will be taken as a basis of exchange."

"Don't you sometimes get cheated in buying or exchanging eggs at a distance?"

"Yes, quite often, but you must look out for that. I once got a letter from a collector in Michigan that he had a set of velvet ducks' eggs. Now, the velvet duck is an exceedingly rare species of the wild duck family. They nest in Labrador and the British American regions, and few of their nests are found. In dimensions they are about the size of hens' eggs. I sent for some, and on receiving them found they were altogether too much like hens' eggs. On breaking one open I found a bit of the yolk which was yet soft, showing that the eggs had been blown only a few days before. As this was in the middle of winter, it was evident that they came from the barnyard. Sometimes the eggs of different species are alike in size and color, and, of course, then deception will be practiced sometimes, and spurious eggs get in a fine collection. Perhaps, though, if one thinks that his egg is authentic he enjoys it just as much."

PROFESSIONAL KNACK.

"It is astonishing," continued the taxidermist, "how soon one gets the knack of finding out the hidden nests of birds, and how quickly one notes by the bird's movements that a nest is near. Sometimes a rare species will come and nest in your own yard, and sometimes some not so rare. For instance, one day I left the door of a closet open in which my collection was kept and a hen walked in and quietly dropped an egg on the cotton that was stored away to be used in the collection box."

"How are the eggs preserved?"

"In the simplest manner. A small hole is drilled in the side of the egg, and the contents removed by means of a blow-pipe. Then the interior of the shell is washed out with water and allowed to drain through the drilled hole on a piece of blotting-paper. That is all that is necessary; the shell will keep all right, and the spots seldom fade. The date of collection and a number to show the species is then written on the side in which the hole is drilled. Then the egg is ready to be placed on a layer of cotton or sawdust in the box or cabinet where the collection is to be kept."

METEORIC STONES.

AN INQUIRY INTO THEIR HISTORY AND ORIGIN.

Various Theories and the Reasons There for—The Well Known "November Stream"—of Meteoric Stones—Shower of Star Dust.

[Hartford Times.]

The falling of the huge one in western Pennsylvania—a stone as large as an average house—seems to have excited some interest on the part of many persons to learn something more about these strange and dangerous visitors. It is rare that we hear of one of such great size as this Pennsylvania meteor; indeed one may almost question the truth of the account. But there have been even larger ones, though not, probably, in modern times.

RED-HOT STONES.

The theory of some persons that these red-hot stones have been thrown out of some volcano, and then been drawn back to the earth's surface by gravitation, is wholly untenable. These fiery rocks come from "other worlds than ours." It is not probable that they are recent emanations from one of the other planets; they are drawn, in all probability, by the earth's greater attraction, out of their place in some of the great meteor streams that revolve, like the earth, around the sun, each in its own orbit. At certain points in the annual journeys of our own world and of these great streams of loosely aggregated rocks of many sizes, the two orbits evidently so nearly touch as to make it possible for the globe on which we live to capture some of the meteoric bodies which constitute the fringe or skirt, so to speak, of the meteor stream.

THE "NOVEMBER STREAM."

Once, on the 13th of November, 1833, our globe must have actually brushed through the thinner outer fringe of the astonishing aggregation which has since come to be known among astronomers as the "November stream," in contradistinction to another whose skirts we almost touch in August, and which is called, therefore, the August stream. Other streams may exist, in the interplanetary spaces, of which the astronomers have no positive knowledge; or, there may be irregular masses, or even endless cases of separate meteoric bodies, all rushing around the sun in different orbits. It is certain that countless millions of these objects, mostly quite small bodies, are actually drawn in upon the earth. Most of them, apparently, are burned up before reaching the earth's surface, and descend in an invisible, impalpable form of exceedingly fine dust.

Occasionally this can be plainly seen—as it was once, in the suburbs of this city, only ten days ago, when it seemed at first, shown against the afternoon sun, like a real shower of rain, only a rain from a clear sky, but which quickly proved to be a shower of dust, so fine, that unless it chanced to be seen against the sun it was invisible. Mr. Proctor, the astronomer, holds this unseen falling meteoric dust to have been an appreciable, indeed an important, factor involved in the problem of the alleged growth of the bulk of our planet, and has actually tried to compute something of the rate and extent of that supposed increase.

LITERALLY "BURNT" UP.

However that may be, our globe certainly does capture an enormous number of little bodies. One or more can be seen silently streaming across the sky on almost any clear, calm night; sometimes a number of them—their seeming course across the sky, instead of plunging straight down, being merely an optical effect, due to the angle at which the appearance is seen. These meteors, entering the earth's atmosphere, and plunging with more and more velocity as they get nearer the surface, are heated to a white heat (and thus made luminous and visible) by the increased friction caused by their increased speed and the increasing density of the air. Most of them appear literally "burnt up." But some, usually the larger ones, hold out against their own conflagration till they burst with a great explosion, or plunge intact (but red-hot) into the ground—or the sea. Without giving credence to the western story, a few years ago, of a man being killed by one of these meteors, there is still some small degree of likelihood that such a thing might happen; a much lesser chance than the danger of being struck by lightning. The August train of meteors is computed to be 90,000,000 miles long—or about as long as the distance from the earth to the sun. Others are of unknown length.

Where do they originate? The question is easily asked. The answer, while it is one about which we feel but little doubt, seems to be not susceptible of being sustained by actual proof. These meteoric bodies appear to be not exactly like any of our rocks. Many of them are more, like a kind of half-vitreous "iron stone" than anything else; they show the work of heat, and ring, on being struck by a hammer.
